STATE PLANNING IN THE 60'S: A BIBLIOGRAPHY

by Alan Eastman, Graduate Program in Urban and Regional Planning, University of Iowa

This bibliography is an attempt to identify a major part of the current literature dealing with the concept and function of state planning. It is not exhaustive in itself, because the key to this bibliography is the phrase 'State Planning' and, in general, does not consider similar or related literature found under such titles as: State Economic Policy, State (economic) Development, or Regional Development. The researcher is encouraged to investigate these sources.

When used in conjunction with three other sources: (1) Harvard's Catalogue of the Library of the Graduate School of Design, Vols. 34 (Regional Planning) & 37 (State Planning), (2) The CPL Exchange Bibliography #71 by Louis C. Violi, and, (3) State Planning: a Bibliography of Selected Items, by Henry Henderson, the reader will have as complete a bibliography on state planning as possible; spanning the entire period of the state planning movement in the United States.

There are several reasons for the inclusions of a number of references dating before 1960. Foremost is that many of these are of the late 1950 vintage; the period when Federal initiative to state planning agencies was significantly increased, and I felt it would be unwise not to include them. Also, most of these sources are unavailable in other bibliographies on state planning. Harvey Perloff's work EDUCATION FOR PLANNING: CITY, STATE AND REGION (1957), for example should not be deleted from a state planning bibliography. The three National Resources Planning Board documents are sources I feel should be included in any bibliography not only because of their importance in retrospect but particularly because the searcher may not have recourse to other bibliographies which may include them; hence I felt their listing important. The other pre-1960 citations are not listed in any state planning bibliography I am aware of and since most of these citations deal explicitly with state planning, I felt they warranted inclusion, even though they do not conform to the title STATE PLANNING IN THE '60'S.
